My name is Steven, and I'm a student at FJU,majoring in medical informatics.I am highly interested in the position of Backend Engineer at your company. My expertise and passion lie in programming, and I am proficient in various programming languages, such as Python and Java. I bring with me internship experience and a track record of working on small projects, and I'm very passionate about project development.

I also have experience participating in coding competitions and engaging in information-related activities. I am eager for the opportunity to contribute my skills and enthusiasm to your team.

（1）salary

I expect a salary of fifty thousands dollars or above.

(2) Why are you interested in our company？

Your company's commitment to fostering a collaborative and creative work experience aligns with my career goals and values,making it an ideal place for me to further develop my skills.

(3) Why are looking for a new job？

Because I just graduated from college and wanted to apply my expertise.